

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus comprising setting a register to a value executing a processing instruction to interpret the value and the at least one register verifying that the interpretation of the processing instruction is valid to ensure the at least one register contains a valid at least one string scanning the string in the register for multiplier scanning the string in the register for a frequency and determining a maximum operating frequency with the multiplier and frequency.